Michael (pictured below) works for the Night Owl Cleaning Service at the Government Services building in Hamilton. For nearly 20 years Michael worked at the Ross IGA but lost his job in 2008 during the recession. He joined the workforce again in 2015.

Being employed enables him to afford greater independence and his work schedule allows him to be an active member of his community during the day before going to work.

Public Meetings: documents now online

In September we held two public meetings discussing our future planning. Over the past year, we've focused on implementing changes to federal and state rules that are intended to enhance support for people with disabilities to live full, meaningful lives in their communities.

The information we shared in those meetings is available for download on our website - click here to see all of the documents.
